The Nordic Centre of Heritage Learning (NCK) promotes cross-sectorial learning that transcends borders - the borders of our mind as well as those of a physical place. But what does it mean to work with learning in such a context, what are the possibilities, advantages or limitations? The 2012 Spring conference raises these issues and NCK offers you inspiring lectures, seminars and encounters. You are warmly welcome to the annual Spring conference of NCK at Jamtli in Östersund, Sweden on February 8 to 9 when the theme is "Step outside! Heritage learning transcends borders".

The conference is directed towards people who are interested in the learning that takes place in archives, museums, galleries and heritage sites. The aim is to strengthen heritage learning through interesting lectures and seminars. NCK has invited a number of internationally renowned speakers that will share their knowledge and experience with the participants. The conference language is Swedish but interpretation into English will be available.

WORK IN PROGRESS

Thursday February 9

When you register for the conference, do not forget to inform us whether you wish to present an ongoing project in the Work in progress session.

THE NCK HERITAGE LEARNING AWARD

The award ceremony will take place during the banquet on Wednesday February 8.

Mercedes Giovinazzo is director of Interarts in Barcelona. She is Chair of the Executive Committee of Culture Action Europe. From 2008 to 2010 she also chaired the "Access to culture" Platform.

Professor R.H. (Bob) Fryer CBE is Chair of the Campaign for Learning UK and a Board member of NIACE. He was one of the Commissioners on the NIACE-sponsored Inquiry into the Future of Lifelong Learning.

Andrew Payne is the Head of Education and Outreach at The National Archives in the UK. He believes passionately in the power of documents to inspire learners of all ages, 6 year old primary school students to 86 year old grandparents.

Gösta Öborn is a world heritage educator at World Heritage Gripton Radio Station, specialising in technology, communication and outdoor education. In 2011 he received the NCK heritage learning award.

Heidi Lunabba is an artist. She works in public spaces with participatory and community art. She leads workshops for groups or projects where people in different ways contribute to the artworks.

Anders Szczepanski holds a PhD in outdoor education and is the Director and founder of CMU, Center for Outdoor Environmental Education at Linköping University. He has published extensively within the field of outdoor education.
